As in the Renaissance, today's age of scientific, intellectual and human discovery provides great potential rewards, but also daunting risks.
Enlightenment can be obscured by darkness. The way things stand in the summer of 2016 the risks appear stronger than the potential rewards.

The back-staff was invented by John Davis in 1590 and it allowed the navigator to stand back from the sun and work with the shadows. It was a great invention for one of the problems with the cross-staff was that you have to look at the sun and this led to blindness and damage to the navigator's eyes but, the back-staff worked with the shadows of the sun which helped obtain altitude.

Global health, wealth and education are booming. Scientific discovery is flourishing. But the same forces that make big gains possible for some of us deliver big losses to others-and tangle us together in ways that make everyone vulnerable. We've been here before. The first Renaissance, the time of Columbus, Copernicus, Gutenberg and others, redrew all maps of the world, liberated information and shifted Western civilization from the medieval to the early modern era.

History of navigation - Wikipedia
The great names of Da Vinci, Galileo, Copernicus, Raphael and Michelangelo were the mark of an age that saw a rush of discovery, the breaking down of barriers of ignorance and a newly connected world both politically and economically. Goldin and Kutarna say that the same forces are at work today.
