The remarriage trap: Don't fall into it | Palmers Solicitors
The Remarriage Trap. The Matrimonial Causes Act 1973 sets out the rights of a spouse to seek a share of the matrimonial assets and maintenance. Buried deep within this legislation is the "remarriage trap". Put simply, if you divorce and then remarry without first having made a claim for a financial order in the divorce petition or having issued an application for a financial order, then you are prevented from seeking maintenance orders, lump sums orders or property adjustment orders.
